Three road deaths here

Two Madison brothers were killed at 11:10 p.m. Friday when their northbound auto struck the rear of a dump truck on Ill. Route 203, a half-mile south of the Bend Road intersection.

Pronounced dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital were Howard James Bridges, 44, of 1652 Fourth St., and Redis Andrew Bridges, 40, of 2014 Edwardsville Road.

The operator and owner of the truck, Thomas J. Bailey, 48, of 2554 Iowa St., suffered minor injuries.

Illinois state police said both vehicles overturned into a ditch alongside the road and caught fire. Madison firemen were called to extinguish the blaze.

Officers were unable to determine which of the two brothers was the driver of Howard Bridges' car, since both were thrown out of the 1968 auto. It was virtually demolished.

Bailey's vehicle was a two-ton dump truck. He said he had just dumped a load of trash at a landfill by the Gateway Truck Stop.

He said he was driving north on 203 at a speed of 40 or 45 miles an hour when he heard and felt the crash.

The truck rose upward and was pushed about a half-block down the highway with the Bridges car underneath it before both vehicles turned over into the ditch.

Bailey told the Press-Record the accident happened just before a heavy rain, but that it was not raining at the time.

Howard Bridges was born at Elco, Ill., and moved here four years ago from Anna.

He had been employed for the past three and a half years as a security guard at Parks Air College, Cahokia.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Neta Bridges; four sons, Robert L. Mayberry of Madison, U.S. Army Private Jimmie D. Bridges, stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., and Edward L. and Donald W. Bridges, both of Madison; a brother, Arthur Bridges of Worden; and two sisters, Mrs. Tom (Pearl) Harvel, Jonesboro, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Abbott of Elco.

Redis Bridges was born at Elco and had been a resident here for the past 20 years.

He was an arc welder for 20 years at Laclede Steel Co., Madison, and for the past five months was employed at the American Steel Foundries in Granite City.

He was a member of American Legion Post 113 of Granite City.

In addition to the two sisters and one brother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sharon Bridges; a son, Michael Eugene Bridges of Madison; and four daughters, Miss Carol Ann Nixon, Miss Linda Sue Nixon, Miss Brtenda Kay Means and Miss Vicki Lynn Bridges, all of Madison.

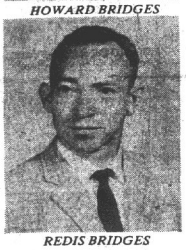

Joint funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

REDIS BRIDGES

A 15-year-old Granite City girl was killed and three other persons were injured shortly before 11 p.m. Saturday when their car plunged into a ditch and struck a utility pole on Old Alton Road just north of the Granite City city limits.

Pronounced dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth hospital was Janice Ruth Gaudreault, 15, of 1716 Courtenay Blvd.

A sophomore student at Granite City High School North, Miss Gaudreault was a passenger in an auto driven by Danny Monroe, 20, of 1617 Courtenay Blvd. The car was headed south.

A Madison County Sheriff Department spokesman told the Press-Record, "Apparently the vehicle struck a large hole in the road which caused the driver to lose control of the auto. The car then plunged into a ditch and hit a utility pole."

Her death was the third traffic fatality in the Quad-City area during the weekend and the 13th to occur during the first six months of this year.

The driver and two other passengers in the auto were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where they were treated for injuries and admitted.

Admitted were the driver, with a three-inch cut to his bottom lip and loose teeth; Pam Monroe, 14, of 1617 Courtenay Blvd., who suffered a severe cut to the top of her forehead and abrasions to her right ankle; and Norman Hooper, 17, of 1716 Sycamore Ave., with a fracture to his left upper leg.

Miss Gardreault suffered head injuries and multiple cuts about the face.

A member of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church in Granite City, she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Peggy) Gaudreault; a sister, Miss Teresa Gaudreault, at home; four brothers, Ricky, Mark, Phillip, and Dennis, all of Granite City, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gaudreault of Madison, and Mrs. Ruth Courtwright of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

The decision to reassign Brown was made at a board meeting.

The board intends to fill the position by July 1, if at all possible, Palcheff said.

No downtrend in auto fatalities

The three weekend traffic fatalities in the Quad-Cities brought to 13 the total number of deaths in traffic accidents so far this year, the same number as recorded through June a year ago.

There were two fatalities in traffic accidents in January this year, two in February, four in March, one in April, one in May and the three fatalities during the weekend for a total of 13.

During the first half of 1973, there were three fatalities in January, one in Februrary, five in March, one in April, one in May and two in June for a total of 13.

The count is two more than the total traffic fatalities during the first six months of 1972, when 11 persons were killed over that period.

Statewide and nationally, traffic deaths are lower due to reduced traffic volume and lower speed limits, associated with fuel supply costs and uncertainties.

Begin new airport—Congress

A directive that the U. S. Department of Transportation "begin construction" of the Columbia-Waterloo airport is contained in a report by the House Subcommittee on Transportation that will accompany the 1975 fiscal appropriation bill scheduled for action in the House at Washington this week.

A section of the committee report, which also criticizes "delay after delay" in beginning construction of the proposed new airport, was inserted by Cong. Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis) during hearings by the subcommittee. The hearings were completed last week.

The report, in reference to grants in aid for airports, asserts:

"The committee is concerned about the lack of progress being made on the St. Louis airport problem. The Federal Aviation Administration has recommended that a new airport be constructed at the Columbia-Waterloo site to serve the St. Louis area.

"The committee is advised that there have been 25 different studies of this subject since 1968.

"Yet, the department (of transportation) continues to authorize additional studies, building delay upon delay instead of building the much-needed airport.

"The committee feels this matter has been studied enough and directs the department to begin the construction of the airport."

The report will be submitted along with the appropriation bill early this week. The House is expected to begin consideration of the measure soon after it receives the bill and the subcommittee recommendations, probably on Wednesday.

The new appropriation measure is for the 1975 fiscal year which begins July 1.

Transportation Department officials said current Lambert Airport studies will be completed but the U. S. may avoid starting additional studies.

Cong. James Symington of Ladue called the committee action "a temporary triumph of $400 million of public works 'pork' for Illinois over the lives and hopes of millions of Missourians who'll be using the airport."

U. S. Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas Eagleton of Missouri told a Senate appropriations subcommittee that any federal order to start construction of a Columbia-Waterloo airport would be illegal, wasteful and wrong while Lambert expansion studies are in progress.

The following statement was issued Friday by Arven H. Saunders, executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority, in commenting on the action in Washington by the House Appropriations Committee expressing deep concern at delay in the start of the proposed St. Louis Intercontinental Airport at Columbia-Waterloo and directing the Department of Transportation to begin construction of the airport without further study:

"The action by the Appropriations Committee is a further indication of the national as well as regional interest in the urgent need for a new major airport in St. Louis.

"As shown in the National Airport System Plan, developed by the Federal Aviation Administration in response to a mandate from Congress, St. Louis is one of the two weakest links in the nation's network of major airports.

"This not only hurts the entire St. Louis metropolitan area but harms the nation as well.

"The problem can only be solved with the development of a new airport at Columbia-Waterloo," Saunders asserted.

Meanwhile, "A major step toward insuring that the new airport in the St. Louis metropolitan area will be located in Illinois was taken with the Illinois Senate's favorable vote of 51-0 on House Bill 2404," Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene of this district commented Friday.

Vadalabene, sponsor of the measure in the Senate, noted that the bill would appropriate $578,150 for the St. Louis Area Metropolitan Area Airport Authority.

"With the compelling testimony of Arven Saunders, as well as the strong support received from Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, we were able to obtain an overwhelming vote," Sen. Vadalabene said.

"Now we must go forward with every effort to get a favorable decision on the airport site from Secretary of Transportation Claude Brinegar.

"It would be clear to all concerned that the case for the Illinois site is a very strong one; it clearly has statewide support on many levels of opinion."

"Construction of the airport in Illinois will mean new employment opportunities for an estimated 8,000 citizens of Illinois.

"When the airport is in operation, it will bring in new industry and stimulate business. It could ultimately create as many as 33,000 jobs and serve as the focus of regional economic development," Vadalabene concluded.

Levee bill advances

A bill to allow voters to determine whether or not to change the makeup of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District was approved by the Illinois House of Representatives 146 to zero Thursday and sponsors are attempting to have it heard in the state Senate before the close of the present session June 30.

The controversial bill would allow the chairmen of the Madison and St. Clair county boards to appoint a new five-member board, with approval of the appointments by the county boardd.

An amendment provides that at least two of the members be Republicans.

The Senate has voted to consider only appropriation measures during the remainder of this session.

But the levee reorganzation bill has been sent to the Senate Rules Committee, which will determine whether it should be considered this session by the full Senate.

If enacted, the bill possibly may carry an amendment drafted by Rep. Horace Calvo (D-Granite City) and sponsored by Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) which would call for the creation of two levee districts, splitting the present district along the county line.

The district now serves the Quad-Cities in Madison County and the East St. Louis area in St. Clair County.

Arrest in molestings

A 15-year-old Granite City boy was apprehended by police Friday and referred to juvenile authorities after he told of molesting two women in separate incidents.

Police said the boy also was identified in a third molestation case and is a suspect in a fourth on the basis of a description and his actions in the other three cases.

Lieut. Col. George Tellor said juvenile authorities released the boy to his parents after arrangements were made late Friday for a psychiatric examination.

Tellor said the boy admitted molesting two Granite City women, both married, in incidents occurring June 10 and June 13, and the boy has been identified in connection with a third incident in which he allegedly molested a 24-year-old Granite City woman on two occasions, once about two weeks ago and again on June 11.

The fourth case, Tellor said, involved a seven-year-old girl. The boy has not been identified in that case at this time, but a description given by the girl of her assailant "makes him strongly suspect in that case also," the officer said.

Police had been seeking a suspect since the first incident occurred at 7:55 a.m. Monday, June 10, when a youth described as about 5 feet, 8 inches tall grabbed a woman on the Biederman Store parking lot, 3675 Nameoki Road, and made obscene gestures toward her before her screams frightened him away. The youth was riding a bicycle when he approached the woman.

On Thursday at 8 a.m. at the Village Lane Apartments area, a youth on a bicycle approached a woman emptying trash into an outdoor container.

He asked her, "What time is it?" and then displayed a pocket knife and ordered her to disrobe

An undetermined amount of narcotics, $653 in cash, and cigarettes were taken after 7 p.m. Thursday in a burglary at Midtown Pharmacy, 2057 Johnson Road, it was reported at 9:07 a.m. Friday by David Paul of Belleville.

Police said the burglars failed to gain entry by attempting to chop a hole in the roof. They then entered the building through a vent by removing an exhaust fan.

Authorities said a trash container was used to stand on to reach an electric box to climb to the roof where more than $4 in coins was found scattered about.

Arrest

"or I'll stab you." He reached out and pulled her robe open.

After pleading with him, she followed his instructions to walk toward a swimming pool. When she felt she was a safe distance ahead of him, she ran into an apartment and called police.

A few hours later, someone came to the same apartment complex and picked up and squeezed a seven-year-old girl who was playing outside.

Like the first victim, her screams possibly prevented further actions.

In all instances, the description was the same. In each case, a bicycle was used to approach the victim.

The other case involving the 24-year-old woman, in which the 15-year-old boy has been identified, was not prepared until Friday.

She was pawed by a man about two weeks ago at 26th Street and Washington Avenue and again on June 11 at Sheridan Avenue and August Street, police were told.

Demolition bids called Thursday

Bids for the demolition of Central School, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, will be opened by the building committee of Granite City Township and City Clerk Robert W. Stevens in the city clerk's office in City Hall at 3 p.m. Thursday.

The former junior high school, which has been abandoned more than one year, will be demolished and a new township building is to be constructed on the site.

The Granite City Board of Education gave the old building to the township in return for a promise of seven years of rent-free space in the new building. The school district will use the space to house the Region I Special Education offices.

Federal revenue sharing money is to be used by the township to demolish the existing school and to construct the new building.

Barricades, lights stolen

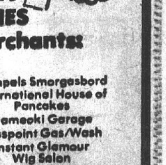

Warning lights and barricades were placed repeatedly at a sewer break at Third and Hampden streets, Venice, but they were stolen in each instance, Jay Maurer, superintendent of streets, reported today.

Maurer said all types of warnings had been attempted at the sunken area in the intersection before a motorist complained last week that he wrecked his car to avoid hitting another car that had swerved to avoid hitting the fencing around the break area.

"We just can't keep anything there. We have tried barricades, lights and blinkers, and all of them were stolen," Maurer said.

Camp opportunity for Girl Scouts aged 7-17

Girls 7 through 17 will be doing exciting things this summer— discovering new art forms, such as making a nature mobile or terrarium, and living in pioneer situations, possibly like those of the Old West or like those in exploring new planets. They will be building their own community, doing the planning and having much fun and adventure.

Who are these girls? The girls of the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council attending resident and core camps at Prairietown, Ill., and Farmington, Mo., a council spokesman said today.

She commented, "Are you ready for the time of your life? Ready to get away from bossy big sisters and tag-along little brothers? Ready to try something new and exciting? Ready to try your hand at being independent?

"If you are, than pack your sack and head for resident camp this summer."

At Camp Chan-Ya-Ta, near Prairietown, girls will spend five days discovering the world of camping.

"If you're a first year camper, you'll probably want to try the Paul Bunyan unit," the spokesman said.

"In this unit you'll get to try camping activities such as singing, hiking, canoeing and campcraft skills — finding out what you like best about camping.

"If that sounds great but you want something a little extra, try the fine Arts or Minstrel unit. In the Fine Arts, you may have a chance to weave, draw, make nature crafts, create a puppet or tie-dye. If you'd like to experiment with a special craft, you can let your counselor know and she'll try to help you get all the things you need.

"If you choose the Minstrel unit, you'll be singing, writing, dancing and maybe starring in a musical extravaganza or puppet show. So if the smell of the greasepaint, the roar of the crowd and your name in lights are part of your dream, the Minstrel unit is for you.

"In the Fine Arts and Minstrel units, you'll be able to do all the camp activities you like best, plus that extra something that makes the world of camping a new experience.

"What's in store for Girl Scouts who have troop camped, core camped or been to resident camp?

"There's Camp Butterfly near Farmington. Enjoy ten days on the shores of its two patrol core camp awaits. Here you'll live, work and share together for five days with other Seniors. You'll be on your own—no leaders. Just you to plan your program, with a core staff to help with any special activities like swimming and canoeing. Try Camp Butterfly for five days of independence.

"How about your troop? Is there anything you can do together? Come to Camp Butterfly for three or five days with your troop. Core camping lets the troop camp together and plan its own program, and a core staff helps special projects or activities.

"If money is a problem, check the camp folder for financial assistance. If transportation is hard, we've got the answer. Girls will be taken by bus to camp for a fee of $3. Those who register for camp will be given the pickup points, times and routes."

Scouts and leaders may contact the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council, 288-7286 or 345-1606, for information.

Water Fun is Roundtable topic

Al Mueller, a Granite City scuba diver, was the guest speaker at the Cub Scout Roundtable last week at Wilson Park. In keeping with the meeting theme, "Water Fun," Mueller spoke on crafts and water safety for boys between 8 and 10 years old.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Darlene Smith, Mrs. Vee Throne led the group in songs related to the theme and Mrs. Pat Shable directed several games.

John Schrader, district commissioner, reviewed requirements for the summertime pack award and a bike safety program. He also announced day camp will be held the weeks of July 8 and July 15. Registration fees of $6.50 are being taken on a first come, first served basis, he added.

Tom Layloff, district chairman, spoke on the importance of family enrollment to keep the council financially stable. To keep costs down, Layloff said, mailings have been cut to a minimum. All information is available at the Roundtable meetings, he added.

The session was opened by Nadene Taylor and a song was led by Darlene Livingston, den leader from Pack 17 at Marshall School.

"Things to do in the water" was the topic of Mrs. Donna Peterson, den leader from Johnson School's Pack 24, and Floyd Jordan described the correct way to dispose of an American flag.

At the July 2 Roundtable at Shelter 5 in Wilson Park, the theme will be "My Home State."

St. Mary's Church scene of Ebers-Vrabec wedding

St. Mary Roman Catholic Church in Madison was the scene of the wedding on June 1 of Miss Mary Vrabec, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vrabec, 1848 Edwardsville Road, Madison, and Air Force Sergeant David R. Ebers, son of Mrs. Dorothy Ebers, of Cahokia, Ill., and the late Ray Ebers.

The Rev. Conrad Motola officiated at the nuptial ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon before an altar adorned with bouquets of white carnations, blue mums and baby breath.

James Havranek, organist, accompanied Anthony Giordano as he sang "Cherish," "Sunrise, Sunset," "The Sabbath Prayer," "Ave Maria," "On This Day" and The Lord's Prayer.

For her wedding, the bride chose a pure white silk organza gown made in Victorian style and a camelot headpiece of Chantilly lace, embellished with seed pearls, to secure her triple tier fingertip veil of bridal illusion, bordered in lace.

Long tapered sleeves forming points over the wrists were set into a molded Empire bodice appliqued with Chantilly lace motifs.

Lace appliques accented her full circular skirt and encircled the hem of the attached chapel length train.

She carried a cascade of pink bridal roses, greenery and baby breath.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Diane Hocking, and bridesmaids, Misses Rhina Greer and Mary Beth Wasylak, a cousin of the bride, were dressed alike.

Their gowns were fashioned with floral print bodices in shades of avocado, lilac, aqua and turquoise. The high necklines and long full sleeves were enhanced with Nottingham ivory lace.

Avocado satin ribbon encircled the waistlines to accent the semi-slim skirt of ivory organza over taffeta. A very wide border of floral print, edged with tiny rows of lace, formed a decorative trim at the hemline.

Each attendant wore an ivory hat with avocado satin ribbon streamers and held a colonial bouquet of blue and white daisies interlaced with looped blue ribbon.

Vicki Vrabec, a cousin of the bride, served as flower girl and carried a straw basket filled with blue and white daisies.

The groom chose Tom Walsh as his best man. Gregory Wasylak, Larry Gross, Michael Vrabec and Kenny Ebers completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers. Larry Vrabec was the ringbearer.

Mrs. Vrabec, mother of the bride, selected a full length gown of blue polyester in a crocheted effect design, trimmed on the bodice and hemline with a geometric pattern. The dress had long fitted sleeves and a mock turtle neckline and was complemented with an ornamental gold belt and gold accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Ebers, was attired in a formal length gown of pink polyester. The long sleeves were set into a lace bodice, featuring a high neckline and her accordion pleated skirt had a self belt. She wore silver accessories.

Both mothers wore cymbidium orchids.

Guests were received by the newly married couple at a reception held at the Croatian Hall in Madison.

A graduate of St. Teresa Academy in East St. Louis, the bride attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She was employed at the First National Bank in Madison.

The groom was graduated from Assumption High School and currently is serving in the Air Force at Whiteman AFB, Mo.

Damage suit filed

His complaint charges that on May 17, 1974, while he was employed by the railroad and working at the Continental Can Company in St. Louis as a switchman, he suffered permanent injuries when he fell while alighting from a train.

Carolyn Bertacchi wed in afternoon ceremony

Sacred Heart Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding on Saturday afternoon of Miss Carolyn Jean Bertacchi, a daughter of Mrs. Richard Bertacchi, 2500 Jerden Ave., and the late Richard Bertacchi, and Gerald John Langler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langner of Chicago Ridge, Ill.

Large white floral arrangements of carnations, mixed flowers and greenery decorated the main altar and white bows marked the pews.

The Rev. John Enright officiated at the double ring nuptial Mass at 2 o'clock. Serving as altar boys were cousins of the bride, Aloyes and Mark Ruessing.

Mrs. Margaret Crawshaw presided at the organ, providing a program of wedding music. Selections included "I Don't Know How to Love Him," "Morning Has Broken," and "Ode to Joy" by Beethoven as the recessional.

Richard B. Bertacchi, the bride's brother, escorted the former Miss Bertacchi down the white carpeted aisle and gave her in marriage. She selected a gown of ivory sata peau, featuring a bodice of Alencon lace, embellished with pearls, with a stand up collar.

The long sleeves were created in a layer effect, with Alencon lace at the top and forming cuffs of the sata peau sleeves.

The flared skirts of sata peau over taffeta was slightly gathered to give fullness. Lace bordered the hemline and the detachable chapel length train.

She wore a camelot bonnet of beaded Alencon lace to secure a full length bridal veil of silk illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of roses, stephanotis and baby breath centered with a rose corsage and ivory streamers.

Mrs. Michael Friedrich, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Richard B. Bertacchi, a sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Nancy Irwin, a former classmate at Illinois State University at Normal, were bridesmaids. Miss Jennifer Lynn Bertacchi, a niece of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid.

The bridesmaids and the junior attendant wore identical dresses of blue and white embossed checked silk organza with an Empire style bodice, scoop neckline and short, puffed sleeves.

The bodices were traced with blue velvet ribbon, and the skirts were slightly gathered with a ruffle at the hemline.

They carried Georgian colonial bouquets of carnations, marguerite daisies, cornflowers and baby breath with velvet streamers.

Thomas Langner, a twin brother of the groom, served as best man. Richard B. Bertacchi, a brother of the bride, and Robert Marta were groomsmen.

The ushers were Michael Friederich, a brother-in-law of the bride, and Charles Langner, the groom's brother. Ricky Bertacchi, a nephew of the bride was the ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bertacchi chose a floor length gown of pink chiffon over taffeta fashioned with an Empire bodice, trimmed with matching Venise lace around the V neckline, encircling the waist and detailing the long sleeves at the cuff. She wore matching pink accessories. A corsage of pink tipped miniature carnations and baby breath complemented her ensemble.

Mrs. Langner chose a floor length gown of blue chiffon over taffeta with a bugle bead trim at the V neckline and cuffs. The skirt was slightly gathered at the waist. She wore matching accessories and a blue tipped miniature carnation corsage with baby breath.

A reception was held Saturday evening at the Polish Hall in Madison. Misses Susan Ruesing, Betty Mulnik and Donna Gordon, all cousins of the bride, presided over the guest book.

Mrs. Toby Langner, a sister-in-law of the groom, Mrs. Robert Marta, and Miss Debbie Hall attended the cake table. The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Bertacchi on Friday evening.

The newly married couple will reside at Crystal Lake, Ill., following a wedding trip to Hawaii.

Honea wins pro-stock drag race

Preston Honea of St. Louis drove to victories in two of three runs during a special pro-stock grudge race on the quarter-mile dragstrip at St. Louis International Raceway Saturday night.

The special matching took place during the track management's 11th anniversary celebration and fan appreciation night.

Honea, at the wheel of the Matt Johnson and Jerry Duncan pro-stock Camaro, defeated the Gene Lynch Pinto, driven by Jerry Haas of St. Louis.

In the first round, Honea covered the quarter-mile in 9.59 seconds, finishing at 145.40 miles-per-hour while Haas turned a :10.10 at 132.55 m.p.h.

The match became tied after Honea's car overheated in the second round and Haas won on a solo run.

In the race for the championship, the Camaro clocked a 9.9 second run at 125.01 m.p.h. with Haas close behind at :9.97 and 134.33 m.p.h.

Jim Christopher of St. Peter's, Mo., won the street eliminator money. Fletch Blackburn's "TNT Red" Ford of Roodhouse, Ill., topped a large super stock field and John Kaiman of St. Louis won in stock eliminator.

Venice Little League baseball is resumed

Venice Little League baseball competition has gotten under way again after an absence of almost eight years.

Dale Crawford is the coach for all four teams in the league and Fred Durer is business manager.

In opening contests last week, the Schermer Bluebirds defeated St. Mark's Braves 17-6 and the Post 307 Cardinals downed the Boushard Cubs 7-4. St. Mark's Braves won 20-12 over the Post 307 Cardinals Saturday.

With all contests being played at Venice's Lee Park, and with 6 p.m. starting times, games scheduled include:

TODAY, June 17
Schermers vs. Cubs

TUESDAY, June 18
Braves vs. Cardinals

To begin the season, all of the Little League players paraded around the Venice area in the American Legion Post 307 duck vehicle and then were treated to hot dogs and soda at Lee Park.

Mrs. Maragaret Lee was given the honor of throwing out the first ball.

Bubblemasters name directors

Dr. Chris Geroff, Bob Burns and Rich Grizzard were re-elected to the Bubblemasters Scuba Diving Club's board of directors in an election last week. Two others chosen from a field of eight candidates were Whitey Morrison and Larry Erney.

Vance Weiss, president, conducted the election meeting at the Tri-Cities Area YMCA.

Plans were completed for the Bubblemasters Underwater Recovery Team (BURT) to serve as the sole recovery group at the Jaycees' drag boat races and time trials Saturday and Sunday on the Mississippi River.

Weiss said entry to the race area may be gained from the Chain of Rocks waterworks on Riverview Drive, St. Louis, 1½ miles south of the Interstate 270 Bridge.

Proceeds from the races, to be sponsored by the Chain of Rocks, Crestview and West St. Louis County Jaycees, will be used toward establishing Camp Wonderland, a recreational facility for handicapped children.

Drivers and boats from all areas of the United States are expected to take part in the event, most running the quarter-mile straight course at speeds in excess of 200 mph, Weiss said.

$300 THEFT LOOT

Items valued at $300 were taken from the home of Ralph Thomas, 2127 Lincoln Ave., it was reported at 1:27 a.m., Friday. Stolen were two televisions, a clock radio, an eight-track stereo and tapes.

This Wednesday, June 19, is the deadline for entering the tournament. Entries are to be mailed to MaClair Tennis Association, P.O. Box 1819 Fairview Heights, Ill. 62208. Information can be obtained by calling Ron Patterson at 876-6235.

State crown to Northbrook

Glenbrook North High School of Northbrook became the new Illinois state baseball champion Thursday night after a wild pitch in the eighth inning allowed a North run and brought the end of East Peoria's hopes for the crown. The run broke a 3-3 tie and the score remained 4-3 to the end.

East Peoiria Pitcher Roger Phegley was voted the tournament's most valuable player despite the throw in the dirt.

East Peoria advanced to the finals in Peoria after defeating the O'Fallon Panthers 4-2 in a semifinal contest Thursday. North earned its berth by downing Thornton of Harvey 6-5 in eight innings, also Thursday.

A double by Kowalczyk added two runs. Cedric Wilson continued the attack with a hit for another run, Bob Shipley walked and a hit by Steve McCunney scored another run.

Alton retaliated in the fourth with two runs on two walks and a double.

Venice-Madison's other run scored in the fifth when shipley and McCunney drew walks and there was a wild pitch.

In other contests Friday, Collinsville downed Belleville 8-7 and Edwardsville defeated East St. Louis 11-1. A scheduled Granite City-Gillespie contest at Wilson Park was postponed.

Kiwanians learn about keeping water pure

The importance of "cross connections," a method that prevents possibly contaminated water from re-entering regular water lines, was stressed at the Breakfast Kiwanis meeting Thursday in Charlie's Restaurant.

Ronald Skrabacz, cross-connection control supervisor for the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co., presented the last in a series of three programs explaining operation of the water supply system.

Skrabacz said the Environmental Protection Agency has become very interested in making sure the protective system is installed in hospitals, factories and populated areas using public water supplies.

It was suggested that individuals with outside faucets can obtain an anti-siphon device from almost any plumbing store for about $4.

Kiwanian Richard Neubauer, customer service superintendent for the Granite City office of the water company, introduced the speaker.

The series of programs was arranged by Kiwanian Dr. Thomas Layloff Jr.

Norman Kinder, president-elect, who presided at the meeting, said the club will hold a business meeting and general discussion of club activities Thursday morning.

Venice may reschedule investments

A rearrangement of investment schedules may mean additional revenue of $15,000 to $18,000 a year in interest for the city of Venice, council members were informed in a regular meeting last week.

City Treasurer Henry Baucum told council members that a review of investment programs for temporarily idle city funds had been made by him, Mayor William "Mike" Ebersoldt and Carl Byrnes, city comptroller, after they learned higher bank interest rates are available on longer term investments.

"After Mayor Ebersoldt was elected, he wanted to determine the city's true financial pecture, so we began reviewing our situation and met with bank officials," Baucum reported.

"We were told that much of our investment money now drawing 5.5 per cent can increase its earnings to 7.25 per cent if it is deposited for six months, and that we can receive 7.5 per cent on funds deposited for a year or more," he added.

In other council action, Alderman Tyron Echols reported that the equipment needed for the Well-Baby Clinic, 145 Madison Ave., approved for purchase by the council, has been ordered and that as soon as it arrives medical doctors will be available at the clinic.

Echols explained that doctors have volunteered to be at the clinic without charge to give physical examinations to all children in the Venice-Madison area.

Alderman Echols reported that the building committee will meet this week and next to decide what should be done to beautify the front of the city hall.

Wes Edwards, assistant health inspector, reported that he is attempting to determine ownership of vacant property at 112 Granville St.

Weeds should be cut and the basement boarded up. The chief of police and I also are in the process of getting rid of an abandoned car on that property" Edwards said.

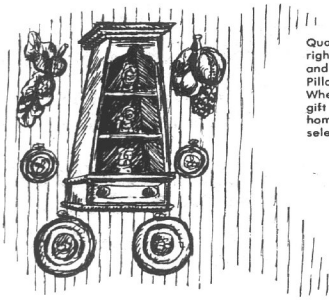

The health officer reported that the old Venice Liquor Store will be razed and that the property at 816 Third St., which is now vacant, will be repaired.

On a motion by Alderman Oscar King, seconded by Alderman John Ervin, the Venice Senior Citizens request for a bus trip to Carlyle, Ill. on June 27 was approved.

Alderman Louis D. Ratliff, chairman of the Street and Alley committee, reported that rain has delayed weed cutting and there is a need to purchase slag for several holes in streets. He said that wet weather prevented proper repairs to streets and caused more holes to develop. He noted the conditions of road are extremely [illegible].

The treasurer's report for May was read and approved. It listed total receipts of the general find were $18,767, and disbursements $41,254, with a bank balance of $83,133.

Weather hampering gardeners in fighting weeds, insects, diseases

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

Spring 1974 has given gardeners many headaches (and backaches) with the usual problem trio of weeds, insects and diseases. Due to weather conditions, many normal prevention or protection practices have failed to work effectively.

Weeds have been transplanted through cultivation, spray and dust deposits have been washed off, plants have grown slowly, insects have survived the winter, and some gardens are too wet to work.

The adage "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" still remains true in gardening. All forms of pest control, including weed control, are earier and more efficient if pests are prevented from becoming serious.

Preventing weeds from growing is the easiest and best method of control. Frequent shallow cultivations and mulches are the most practical. When mulches are used, they must be thick enough to prevent the weeds from growing through.

Weedy gardens now require lots of labor to destroy all weeds so that preventive control can be resumed.

Insects will come and go as the season progresses and alertness will be the watchword.

Some flea beetles are now working on potatoes and eggplant. They will persist for a while.

Cucumber beetles feed on a number of plants for long periods, and members of the cucumber famify must be protected. Cabbage worm season is approaching for all members of the cabbage family.

White butterflies with black spots on the wings (adults of the imported cabbage worm) are indicative of potential trouble. Potato beetles, aphids, corn earworm, and other insects will be feeding soon.

At the first sign of feeding by any of these pests, apply a spray or dust of malathion or carbaryl (Sevin) and repeat at weekly intervals.

Diseases are not as easy to predict as insects because infections are tied closely to weather conditions.

Control is strictly preventative, either by resistant varieties, good cultural practices or with fungicides applied before infections occur. Maneb, zineb or captan fungicides will prevent many of the diseases from getting started. Avoid working when wet and keep weeds under control.

Currrent threats are leaf diseases of potato, tomatoes, melons, beans and pepper. Watch and treat these crops as needed.

By fighting a preventative fight, gardening should be easier and more profitable.

+ + +

Peach borers feed on peach trees and also on cherry, plum, apricot and nectarine trees.

Their tunnels into the limbs, trunk or roots of trees cause weakening or death of the trees.

An easy control program of the peach borer problem in home orchards is now available. Spray the trunk and crotch area with carbaryl (Sevin) at 3 tablespoons per gallon on June 15, July 15 and Aug. 15.

These sprays should kill all the young worms before they tunnel into the bark.

Junior Achievers join First Bank

Two young women who were active members of the Granite City Junior Achievement Bank for three years have joined the staff of the First Granite City National Bank, sponsors of the JA Bank program here.

The new bank employes are Miss Karen Couch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Couch, 2121a Grand Ave., and Miss Sonja Cornman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner, 5109 Rapp Road.

Both graduated this month from Granite City High School North, and prior to graduation applied for regular full-time employment at First Bank and were accepted.

Miss Couch is working in the General Ledger section of the Operations Department, employing many of the skills she learned as a Junior Achiever, according to David Fox, vice president.

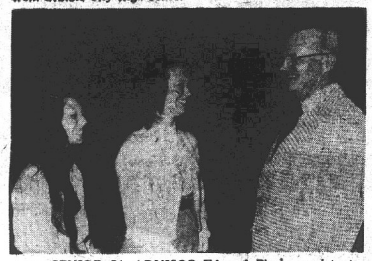

Miss Cornman is training to become the regular First Bank telephone receptionist and switchboard operator. She will be, the "voice" of the bank in receiving and directing all incoming calls, Fox said.

The two young women are the most recent additions to a long line of JA Bank members who were employed on a full-time basis by the sponsor bank upon graduation. Other JA Bank members have been assisted in finding employment by written references from their JA Bank advisors, Fox noted.

The Junior Achievement program has been active in Granite City since the mid-1950s. In the early years, sponsorship of the JA Bank alternated annually between the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank and the First Granite City National Bank. First Bank has been the sole sponsor since 1962.

Sponsorship of the JA Bank includes providing several First Bank employes to serve as advisors. The senior JA Bank advisor is Edward Pierce, assistant cashier and head teller, who has served as senior advisor for 14 years.

Other bank employe-advisors are Joann Edwards, 10 years in the program, Erna Legendre and Mattie Pope, advisors for six years and Diana Thuis and Linda Mance, active in the JA Bank for two years.

SENIOR JA ADVISOR Edward Pierce, assistant cashier and head teller at First Granite City National Bank, welcomes new employes Karen Couch, left, and Sonja Coraman, former three-year members of the Junior Achievement Bank sponsored by First Bank. Upon graduation from high school both girls were accepted for full-time employment by their JA sponsor.

Strange things happening as Assembly session nears end

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Mon., June 17, 1974 Page 12

An air of unreality hovers over the Statehouse as the spring-summer session of the 1974 Illinois legislature moves into its final two weeks.

The last month of a legislative session is always hectic and confused, but this one promises to outdo all its predecessors.

Even veteran watchers of legislative proceedings have difficulty making sense of what is happening.

Although the legislature officially has been in session since January, virtually nothing of importance in enacting legislation was accomplished during the first five months.

Yet there has been persistent speculation from offices of the legislative leadership about an early windup of the session, perhaps even by June 20.

The major item of business before the lawmakers has been the adoption of the budget for the new fiscal year, which starts July 1.

The budget picture has remained extremely cloudy because in a number of cases the legislature has ignored Gov. Dan Walker's recommendations and has advanced its own proposals for various agencies and programs.

The governor wants a reduction in state funding for elementary and secondary schools. The lawmakers appear determined to insist on continued full funding and have support from Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan in this regard.

Lawmakers want to spend at least $20 million more for mental health than Gov. Walker thinks necessary. There is a drive on to boost welfare spending above the amounts sought by the governor.

Walker's own tax relief program, which would have meant taken income and sales tax relief, has been scuttled. A rival plan supported by Hartigan and Republican House Speaker W. Robert Blair, based chiefly on a reduction in the state utility tax, continued to advance through the legislature.

Lawmakers appear determined to push authorized spending for the new fiscal year beyond $8 billion. The proposed Walker budget stops just short of that mark.

In the overall, the session is building up to a big confrontation between Walker and the lawmakers. It is becoming more and more likely that Walker will be setting another record in vetoes.

The resulting deadlock could mean a fall special session that would put incumbent legislators—all of whom except half the Senate are up for re-election—on a "hot spot" just before election day.

Beneath the Statehouse Dome there is a growing feeling that Walker is not unduly concerned about what the legislators are doing to his budget and other proposals and that he would welcome a confrontation.

In the arena of public opinion, it is felt that Walker, as he has in the past, would emerge as the winner over the legislature.

The legislature ranks low in public esteem and there is a decided tendency by the electorate to blame lawmakers rather than the governor when things go wrong.

Under the circumstances, it is little short of incredible that the legislators last week appeared determined to vote themselves another pay raise, from the present $17,500 to $22,000.

A yea vote on the pay bill could cost some legislators their seats in November. But this has been a strange legislative session in a strange political year.

Legal investigators to meet in Peoria

ANTHONY M.GOLEC

Anthony M. Golec, national director of the National Association of Legal Investigators, will preside at the eighth annual convention of the association, which will open Tuesday, June 25, at the Ramada Glendale Inn in Peoria, Ill., and extend through Friday, June 28.

Michael J. Howlett, Illinois secretary of state, is scheduled to deliver the keynote address at the convention at the noon luncheon on Thursday, June 27.

Golec is director of Anthony M. Golec & Associates, legal investigators with offices in Belleville and Highland, and is a charter member of the association, which was organized in 1967 in St. Louis.

A national investigation seminar being held in conjunction with the convention will feature twelve investigators and attorneys speaking on a variety of topics in the broad field of investigation.

Leonard M. Ring, president of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America and a strong opponent of "no fault" insurance legislation, will speak on the investigation of construction site accident claims. Belleville attorney George R. Ripplinger, Jr. will appear on the seminar program to discuss civil rights and criminal investigation.

Samuel K. Skinner, assistant United States attorney and chief investigator for the United States attorney in the Northern District of Illinois, who prepared the prosecution case against Federal Judge and former Illinois Governor Otto Kerner, will speak on the investigation of offical corruption and the prosecution of public officials.

Charles "Chick" McCuen, former NBC news commentator and now a special television and radio consultant for the Illinois Department of Corrections, will present his observations and analysis of the Richard Speck murder trial, which he covered in its entirety for NBC.

Legal investigators from Los Angeles, Calif.; Portland, Ore.; and Detroit, Mich., also will appear on the seminar program to present methods and techniques of investigation.

The closing banquet of the seminar on Friday, June 28, will feature the awarding of the professional designation of Certified Legal Investigator for the first time to members of the organization who have fulfilled requirements for the designation with regard to work experience and training.

This professional designation program was approved by the association at its annual convention last summer in San Diego, Calif., and is administered by Robert E. Chapman of the association and operator of Torts, Ltd., legal investigators in Granite City.

Bolin training in Germany

Army Private First Class Rector L. Bolin of Granite City and other members of the 565th Engineer Battalion have completed adventure training on the upper Rhine River in Germany.

The four days of training were spent building a tie bridge. This type of bridge combines three different components to span a body of water.

Upon completion of the bridge, it was tested by driving a five-ton truck and a 20-ton crane across at the same time.

Pfc. Bolin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rector L. Bolin, 2904 Dewey Ave., is a mechanic in the battalion's 502nd Engineer Company in Karlsruhe.

'Help me make it through the night' —Crisis Intervention Service tries

By MARY LOU MANNING
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

The old adage "people who talk about it, don't do it" is false.

"If a friend or relative talks about committing suicide, listen to him," advised Dr. Joseph Tribyl, director of the Crisis Intervention and Suicide Prevention Service.

The Service is sponsored by the Illinois Department of Mental Health.

Suicide is something people whisper about and something the plot of some movies is taken from, but it shouldn't be taken lightly. Nationwide, between 35,000 and 65,000 people end their own lives this way each year.

"The reason this figure is so flexible is that relatives and friends of a suicide victim do everything they can to place the cause of death on something else," Tribyl said, "because of the stigma attached to it."

He estimates that as many as 16 attempts are made for every suicide actually carried out.

Although most suicides are committed by men, women are more apt to attempt it.

"Part of the reason for this is the fact that women are far more likely to seek and obtain help than men," he commented.

One of the places anyone in a crisis situation can seek help is through this DMS-sponsored service. Set up in 1967, it provides an avenue for help for people finding themselves in a suicidal or any other crisis situation.

"We provide a seven days a week, 24 hours a day telephone service for anyone upset or concerned over themselves or a friend or relative," explained Tribyl, who has been with the service since its inception.

The service receives about 800 calls per month. Although they will talk to anyone who calls, they concentrate on the Chicago area.

"Once in awhile we receive an out-of-state call from someone concerned about a relative or friend living in Chicago," he continued. "We tell them to contact the troubled party and have them call us.

"We don't make it a practice to initiate the call because that's an invasion of privacy."

The telephone line is staffed by a majority of volunteers who undergo a period of training followed by careful supervision.

"We could operate the entire service with paid personnel, but we have found that our volunteers are numerous and capable."

What happens when the phone rings?

"Our first step is to make an assessment of the situation," the director explained. "We then try to calm the person down enough that he can talk about the situation. Some simple tasks often work—such as telling him to put the phone down and wash his face or go to the refrigerator and get something to eat or drink.

"After he calms down, we talk. And since most calls are received during non-working hours, we try to get the caller through the night until help can be obtained during working hours."

These people are trained to help others in distress, but what can you or I do to prevent a suicide?

"If someone drops a hint that he is contemplating suicide, take it seriously," Tribyl offered.

"Ask them about it; talk with them."

The bike hike has several special features. Boys and girls 11 to 14 can participate in the jaunt, and the riders will stay overnight at the Edwardsville YMCA.

A sleeping bag or a blanket roll and pillow are necessary. Accomodations will be in the all-purpose room at the "Y".

The YMCA here will provide leadership from its summer staff to assure proper supervision, care and safety for the riders and to plan activities, games and nature study stops.

The bike hike will begin at the Tri-City area YMCA at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 30. The group will return here about 11:30 a.m. on July 1.

There will be a nominal fee for the lodge and swim. Each person will be asked to bring change for an evening snack and morning breakfast. Those interested may call the "Y" here to register or receive more information.

Precautions urged to avoid cutting buried phone cables

"Warning: Underground cable. Before digging, trenching or pushing pipe call the operator."

Such a warning sign can be found throughout the area on posts or pedestals bearing the Bell System seal," according to Tom Rich, local manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

"Chances are more than 60 underground and buried telephone cables will be severed or damaged throughout the metropolitan area and outlying communities this month alone because of excavating operations," Rich continued.

"If a telephone cable is cut it could interrupt the telephone service of hundreds of customers," Rich said. "A large cut may even isolate an area from the telephone network for as long as a day.

"We are urging people to take precautions before starting a project involving digging, even in their lawns and gardens. Anyone who is going to dig may learn where cables are located by calling the operator and asking for 'Enterprise 9800.' We'll even locate and stake cable for them," Rich said.

"We try to work closely with contractors and utilities to keep the number of cable cuts to a minimum, but with more than 6,000 miles of buried and underground cable we can't keep track of all digging activity that goes on," Rich explained.

"That's why it's important for everyone to remember to call the operator before digging."

Klekamp state trooper today

Twenty-eight new state police troopers have graduated after 21 weeks of cadet training at the Academy in Springfield and began patrol duties today alongside 1,753 other Illinois state policemen.

The men, with two more weeks of training than the previous class less than a year ago, will be assigned throughout the state and will be on one-year probation.

A new dimension to the present class was a five-day, 40-hour driver training course in tactical maneuvers which included intentional skids to test driver response and reaction time, swerving through narrow lanes, sharp turns on command, backing through narrow lanes and several other intricate auto maneuvers.

The new troopers also received training in the Breath Analysis Unit and are certified operators of Omicron, used to test blood alcohol content in suspected drunk drivers.

In brief remarks, Gov. Dan Walker addressed the class and introduced the keynote speaker, Dr. Thomas F. Staton, head of the Department of Psychology, Hintingdon College, Montgomery, Ala.

Out of the 28 graduates, eight were assigned to the Toll Road at Oak Brook. They include Richard Klekamp of Granite City.

Doctor warns—psychological harm can follow an assault

Police and medical methods of handling rape victims run the risk of leaving the woman a psycho-sexual cripple, an Illinois physician has warned.

Writing in the current issue of the Illinois Medical Journal, official publication of the Illinois State Medical Society (ISMS) Dr. Robert Hartman, a Jacksonville obstetrician and gynecologist and ISMS second vice-president, said skepticism of law enforcement officials coupled with the sometimes unsympathetic treatment of victims by physicians can leave permanent psychological scars.

"Suspicion and unwitting queries such as 'Did you invite it?' or 'Did you enjoy it?' add to the dehumanizing trauma of rape and can have a devastating affect on victims, especially adolescents," he said.

A drastic increase in rape during recent years gives the problem added significance he commented.

Federal Bureau of Investigation figures show that incidence of rape in the U. S. increased more than 60 per cent between 1966 and 1972, and the category now accounts for six per cent of the violent crimes committed each year.

During 1972, approximately 46,430 rapes were reported, 10 per cent more than in 1971.

Law enforcement officials are reluctant to estimate the actual number of rapes, but some say that only one out of every six is ever reported.

Dr. Hartman points out that many physicians who never saw a rape victim before now are treating them in hospital emergency rooms.

Under Illinois' emergency medical services program, many hospitals are required to staff emergency rooms around the clock. This has forced hospitals to assign physicians—regardless of their specialty—to the emergency room and bring them into contact with such victims.

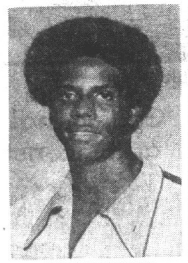

"Some physicians simply do not want to examine these women because they may have to testify in court," he said. "Many doctors fail to realize, however, that their job is to determine if contact occurred, not to determine whether it involved crime."

By the time the victim reaches the examining rrom she has in many cases, already had her integrity assailed by police questioning, it is contended. If the physician allows suspicion to enter his examining room, the results can be phychologically disastrous for the woman, Dr. Hartman said.

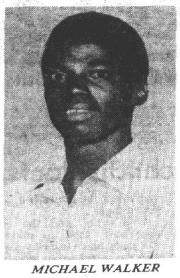

"The dehumanizing experience compounded by suspicion may cause the victim to view sex as a demeaning, dirty and traumatic experience," he added.

Chicago police are conducting a pilot program in which 18 specially trained policewomen handle initial interviews with rape victims. The program will be considered for citywide use in July.

"Doctors around the state should encourage development of similar programs in their communities and work closely with police to prevent needless psychological damage to the victims," Dr. Hartman said.

The program is désignated to be as realistic as possible.

'Benji' a treat for dog lovers

By GENTRY TROTTER
for Channel Four

"Paul and Michelle".

And now, "As the Stomach Turns".

Paul—"Michelle, how I do love you!"

Michelle!"Oh, Paul darling, there's another man in my life."

Paul!"But Michelle, how can you do this to me, mon cheri?"

Michelle!"Remember the song, 'If ever I would leave you?'— ' '

Paul—"Of course, darling."

Michelle—"Well, honey, I done left you; can you dig it?"

So much for this mini soap opera. That's all there is to Paramount Pictures' "Paul and Michelle."

This R-rated flick has all of those re-hashed trials and tribulations you've seen a thousand times in the movies and on tv.

It will probably appeal to you if you are the soft, overly emotional type. It receives my "over-done and unnecessary" rating of two for fair.

"Benji".

After wishing for a different type of flick, I am happy to announce that a Mulberry Square production,"Benji" uses a lot of extremely beautiful camera shots and a splendid hero theme.

This G-rated movie is staffed with Edgar Buchanan, Peter Breck and Frances Bavier. It has clean and inspirational entertainment.

Not only does it outmatch a Walt Disney production, all of you dog lovers will just love it. It receives my three-Milkbone Treats rating of good. Lassie, eat your heart out.

"Where the Red Fern Grows"

G-rated, it has lots of coon-hunting adventures and hounds yapping.

"Where the Red Fern Grows" is not your typical Ma and Pa Kettle flick. James Whitmore and his gang give us a dark and most tired look at the backwoods.

Sorry, but it just doesn't turn me on, and receives my down-home rating of fair.

Physics degree for Brooksher

James C. Brooksher, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brooksher, 903 McCambridge Ave., Madison, graduated this spring from MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill., with a bachelor of science degree in physics and pre-engineering.

He was among 194 graduating seniors in MacMurray's 123rd annual commencement.

Dr. C. Leslie Kanatzar, who will retire June 30 as dean of the college after 28 years as a member of the faculty and then the administration, was the commencement speaker.

Adressing the role of a liberal arts college like MacMurray, Dr. Kanatzar said, "There is still a need for ideals. There is yet a need for values. A liberal education seeks to assist the student in formulating values by which he can identify himself in the contemporary world and determine how he will relate to that world."

It was noted that MacMurray, a private, four-year liberal arts college, is implementing a new competence-oriented curriculum next fall. In it, students will have several options besides taking a course by which to demonstrate "abilities of a fully educated person."

Graduates at St. John's U.

Walter Lasslo, son of Mrs. Marie E. Lasslo, 2524 Angela Drive, was among 324 seniors to graduate from St. John's University at Collegeville, Minn., this spring.

Selected by the students as their speaker at the university's 117th commencement was mathematics department chairman Dr. Robert Dumonceaux, who was recently named one of the country's outstanding educators. The baccalaureate address was given by the Rev. John Eidenschink, abbot of St. John's Abbey.

St. John's, with an enrollment of 1,700, is located on a campus of 2,000 acres of hills and lakes 75 miles northwest of the Twin Cities. A Roman Catholic institution for men conducted by Benedictine monks, it offers an innovative curriculum on a 4-1-4 calendar in cooperation with the nearby College of St. Benedict.

Lasslo graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education.

"Okay—we'll open up a little bit"

Council of Governments bill is progressing despite lack of full public awareness and acceptance of the sweeping reorganization it would bring

It is a bit surprising that St. Louis Area Council of Governments legislation is making such headway in the present Illinois General Assembly session despite the absence at this time of extensive grassroots knowledge and support of the proposed major governmental revision.

Backed by Rep. Monroe Flinn of St. Clair County on behalf of its sponsor, lameduck Rep. James Krause of the same county, the bill reached the Illinois House floor through approving action by the Counties and Townships Committee.

Immediately after affirmative votes by the Illinois and Missouri legislatures and Congress, the package would go into effect. The legislation would combine the Bi-State Development Agency and East-West Gateway Coordinating Council into a body of almost unlimited authority.

It would be both a planning and operating agency and would also be able to give a red or green light to any competing programs from other governmental bodies seeking federal funds.

While municipalities would remain in existence, construction-zoning-land use controls and a host of other formerly local matters would be decided regionally.

Mayor Paul Lenz of Alton is among those who have cited the ramifications, but unfortunately there has not been a great deal of public dialogue in Madison and St. Clair Counties, other than through his efforts.

There are facets of the proposal that are attractive and perhaps someday it will be implemented. But for it to become law in its present form could have serious consequences, not the least of which would be the ire of a citizenry that awakened too late to what was afoot.

Committee to assure autonomy sounds good but semantics still a threat

Many Quad-Cityans were heartened by the efforts of Mrs. Margaret Blackshere of Madison, a member of the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University, at a public hearing here Thursday. She and others successfully sought to persuade the board to reconsider its headlong advance toward downgrading the SIUE presidency and creating an all-powerful chief to "coordinate" the two campuses.

The 20-member committee that is being created to suggest revised board and executive officer relationships seems likely to be able to throw much-needed light on some of the many defects in the document adopted by trustees in January. The recommendations are to be heard at the September board meeting.

The battle is far from won, as indicated by the comments of Chairman Ivan A. Elliott Jr., who agreed with the theoretical concept of "autonomy" for each of the campuses but then aptly noted that autonomy can be defined in a variety of ways and degrees.

What Mr. Elliott and some of the other pro-centralization trustees are afraid of is that the campus presidents may embarrass them, and they want to be protected from it. But their idea of a buffer between the administrators and board could do much more harm than good.

Can anyone imagine an elementary-secondary school board not trusting its superintendent to the extent that it designated a staff chief to interpret board wishes to the superintendent?

Vital that full use be made of street department personnel, equipment

Signs appearing at scattered locations in Granite City reflect dissatisfaction with the performance of the city street department.

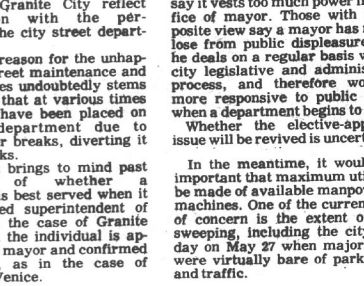

Part of the reason for the unhappiness with street maintenance and related services undoubtedly stems from the fact that at various times added duties have been placed on the street department due to sanitary sewer breaks, diverting it from other tasks.

The subject brings to mind past discussions of whether a municipality is best served when it has an elected superintendent of streets, as in the case of Granite City, or when the individual is appointed by the mayor and confirmed by aldermen, as in the case of Madison and Venice.

Those who oppose appointment say it vests too much power in the office of mayor. Those with the opposite view say a mayor has more to lose from public displeasure, since he deals on a regular basis with the city legislative and administrative process, and therefore would be more responsive to public opinion when a department begins to falter.

Whether the elective-appointive issue will be revived is uncertain.

In the meantime, it would seem important that maximum utilization be made of available manpower and machines. One of the current points of concern is the extent of street sweeping, including the city workday on May 27 when major streets were virtually bare of parked cars and traffic.

Adults should recall their childish acts

To the Editor:

This letter is in direct response to the one in the June 10 issue on "Society too lax on punishing juveniles" by a Ralph Street woman.

Her kind of attitude infuriates me, in that "streakers" can hardly be categorized with those responsible for thievery and other crimes.

Adults so conveniently erase from their memory the acts involving them during their period of adolescence.

Also worth mentioning is that condoning of crime is not the objective of my letter. However, the offense of streaking is a purely personal thing and not related to crime by any standard.

The School Board members, before taking such drastic action, should reconsider and realize that their decision could well affect the future of a good young man.

This event and the consequences bring to mind a statement made to me by a wise attorney in regard to members of juries—

"A good juror is one who has been on both sides of the fence."

This boy is not a criminal. Let's not regard him as one.

Fence ditch and keep children away

To the Editor:

On June 4, two boys were injured at the Nameoki Drainage Ditch near Wilson Avenue. Let's all get together and try to prevent our children from playing near the ditch.

This particular spot was very hazardous and there has yet to be a day when children are not playing there.

Besides being dangerous, the ditch is also a health hazard.

A day or so after the accident, city officials and East Side Levee Board members were at the site to observe conditions. While they were there, a large rat was seen.

There have been two different occasions in the past that we know of when sewage was released into the ditch because of sewer breaks.

I realize the sewer breaks are bad, but an epidemic of typhoid can be bad, also.

We are hoping the East Side Levee Board gets on the ball and corrects these conditions.

I don't want to put the blame entirely on the levee board.

The children are guilty also. I have seen them come with picks and shovels to dig at the ditch. I have seen them throw trash into the ditch. I have seen them take bricks and drop them on the pipes to break them.

I have been cussed out and told to mind my own business whenever I reprimanded them for any of these things.

The ditch should be patrolled, but evidently it isn't. A fence is the real answer, but for some reason we can't get that.

Let's not let another accident wake us up to the fact that this is not a play area for children.

Also, let's be careful when election time rolls around. The present East Side Levee Board is not doing their job.

Maybe the accident of two small boys might wake them up; our telephone complaints didn't. Let's hope so.

SUNSET DRIVE PARENT

Calls penalty harsh and inconsistent

To the Editor:

Raising a family is no simple task. Every parent hopes their child will be a model child and one day grow into a responsible, law-abiding adult.

However, some children are mischievous, some steal and others are drug users. The "streaker" performed a mischievous prank, outraging and embarrassing the public.

Students caught starting a fire, stealing a car, selling drugs and using drugs have never, to my knowledge, received like punishment.

Pollution has taken its toll in Granite City, first the air and now the reasoning capacity of how pranksters should be handled.

To the public that believes the "streaker" was justly punished, accept my sympathy.

To the streaker" and his parents who received such harsh judgment, accept my apology.

Opposes leaving tree limbs for city

To the Editor:

There are a number of residents—on Lynch Avenue in particular, that we have noticed on our walks—who put tree limb trimmings in the street for city street personnel to pick up.

These have been there two weeks or more. There are no sidewalks, so we have to walk in the street.

Passing cars get scratched from limbs way out in the street.

These must have been trimmed from rear yards or front yards, so how come the city has to haul away people's personal debris when taxpayers are paying the bill?

A lot of residents are assembling such trash so that city refuse collectors could pick it up.

I think this is a practice that should be abolished. Let them have things like tree limbs and old lumber hauled away by haulers. I did, and do so yet.

SARA RESIDENT

Against adding governmental layers

To the Editor:

Based on contacts with many local government officials in my travels around the state, I believe there is widespread misconception regarding the multi-county planning groups that the federal government has instigated in all states.

Frank Kirk, director of the Department of Local Government Affairs, also has reported similar misunderstandings and apprehensions from the statements and questions raised during the 18 hearings which he conducted.

I am taking the opportunity through this letter to clarify my position on this matter.

All that we are doing is attempting to establish a common set of boundaries to be used for those federally-funded programs which require multi-county planning groups. I want to emphasize these points:

1. This administration is not proposing or pursuing a regionalization program.

2. I am opposed to regional government.

3. The Department of Local Government Affairs is only trying to bring about common boundaries for existing regional federally-financed programs. Local governments could lose millions of dollars of federal funds if these steps are not taken.

4. No new or different government structures or agencies are being proposed.

5. The present proposal is not a foot-in-the-door to any more ambitious or far-reaching program.

6. I am opposed to creating new units of government or adding layers of government at the regional or local level. They simply end up costing the taxpayers more money.

To repeat, I neither porpose nor intend to propose any program for regionalization government.

I hope that this statement allays any misapprehensions about this program that may have arisen. If you need any further information, please let me know.

Illinois—atom birthplace, accelerator site

The National Accelerator Laboratory (NAL) near Batavia has been officially dedicated as the "Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory."

Enrico Fermi (1901-1954), son of an Italian railroad official, is recognized as having achieved the first sustained nuclear chain reaction, which led to the atomic bombs of World War II.

He split the atom, and the nuclear age was born.

After the war, Fermi designed an accelerator. An exile from his homeland since 1936, he became dean to younger theoretical physicists who have continued his quest into deeper and deeper realms of inner space.

An accelerator causes basic units of matter to collide. These collisions, at speeds approaching the speed of light at NAL, cause new particles to be born.

The resulting particles are called "quarks," named after the seagulls in James Joyce's esoteric novel, "Finnegan's Wake."

The scientist of 1974 peers with a huge microscope "into an ambient sea of quarks," according to Dr. Robert R. Wilson, NAL director.

Once there were three fundamental units of matter: protons, neutrons and electrons. Now hundreds have been created at NAL. Some live only a millionth of a second before they decay. They do not exist in nature. They must be created before they can be studied in the NAL's three research areas.

Particles are so small — a kernel of matter is about one ten thousand billionth of an inch in diameter — that ultra-high energies are needed. It takes 938 electron volts to produce one proton. To reach high speeds, four accelerators are used to reach a peak energy of 400 billion electron volts (BEV). An average car battery has 12 electron volts.

The old view of the atom with its nucleus as a "sun" is changing. Instead of three there are hundreds of tiny "planets" in the miniature solar system that is the atom.

Albert Einstein predicted in 1905 that matter and energy can be converted into each other. Now, atomic submarines circle the globe on very little fuel by converting particles into energy.

"At NAL, we are interested in the reverse process of converting energy into unstable particles," a physicist said in 1969.

Scientists also theorize that since mass and energy are equivalent and one can build new particles of matter, every particle may have a twin.

Physicists believed that particles could be studied like a movie camera studies two billard balls colliding. Their paths and changes of shape are recorded on film.

There is no such camera for particles.

And so they created the National Accelerator Laboratory.

— Illinois is the birthplace of atomic energy.

Enrico Fermi's first chain reaction occurred beneath Stagg Field stadium at the University of Chicago in 1942.

Therefore, it seems proper for the state to have the largest scientific instrument ever devised.

The $250 million National Accelerator Laboratory at Batavia recently became the "Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory."

The Batavia laboratory has been called just that — and also "Weston" after the small subdivision which is now part of the laboratory.

On Dec. 16, 1966, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced to the world that a powerful nuclear machine would be built at Weston, and a three-year struggle was ended.

Forty-two states had fought to gain the accelerator by submitting 225 possible sites to the AEC.

On March, 21, 1966, the field was narrowed to seven sites, with two in Illinois still in the running. One was in Barrington, but was withdrawn because of community opposition. Weston became Illinois' lone entry.

Other choices were Ann Arbor, Mich.; Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, Long Island, N.Y.; Denver, Colo.; Madison, Wis.; and the Sierra foothills near Sacramento, Calif.

By June, six months after Weston was chosen, Illinois found itself engaged in a bitter fight over open occupancy laws.

As the Illinois General Assembly approved $30 million to buy the site for the AEC, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. sponsored a protest at the accelerator site.

In 1969, Dr. Edwin L. Goldwasser, deputy director of the NAL since 1967, summed it up:

"Chicago, like other major American cities, was in a state of crisis. There was an urgent need for jobs, education and housing. ... We believed that because we are a large and influential scientific enterprise we could make important contributions. ..."

Instead of hiring the experienced, NAL began its policy of training members of minorities. When the smoke cleared, 30 communities in the NAL area had adopted open housing laws.

Meanwhile, the eyes of the world were focused on Weston and, later on its village president.

The 100-home subdivision, later swallowed by the 10-square-mile NAL, was born in the early 1960s as "West Field." But the developer's money did not last and its 400 residents remained. The U.S. government took over Weston.

Then along came another developer who envisioned a self-contained city of 50,000. The villagers wanted to incorporate, to realize this dream. However, nearby communities sank the proposed mobile home plan on the site and the dreams fell through.

Annexation cases followed and incorporation plans failed, and then Arthur Theriault was elected village president. When a lower court decision granted the village the right to incorporate, Theriault, a former U.S. Marine, fought those who opposed the decision right up to the Supreme Court.

When the struggle was at its height, Theriault was told offhandedly to seek support from the Atomic Energy Commission which was just then seeking a site for an atomic accelerator then termed "an atom smasher" in villagers' minds.

Unknown to the village president, state officials were eager for the site to be in Illinois. They arranged for tours by AEC brass.

When AEC officials arrived April 8, 1966, they were met by color guards, fire trucks and a band playing, "Hey, look me over!"

On Dec. 16, 1966, the village of Weston exploded with newsmen, television cameras and officials.

However, farmers whose family names had been on road signs for 100 years, resented being uprooted. Villagers protested that their dream would be wiped out by the huge atom smasher.

When villagers won the Supreme Court case for incorporation a month after the site was announced, it was an anticlimax.

And Weston residents who had held hopes of becoming a metropolis next to the project, were swallowed up whole, like Jonah by the whale.

Next, villagers lost a court battle regarding moving the village across railroad tracks. Farmers and villagers were squeezed between state purchases of homes, desires to remain a village and AEC deadlines for occupation. Many sold or settled out of court.

Weston was gone. When the NAL began construction, plans were announced that the entrance would be on Kirk Road at the opposite end of the site from Weston. It's address would be henceforth, "Batavia, Ill."

— Dec. 1, 1969 was a stormy, wintry Sunday on the Feldott Farm southwest of Batavia.

That was the day ground was broken for the "Linac" — the National Accelerator Laboratory's first permanent building.

Next June, construction will be completed on the site which has included three research areas, the main ring, three smaller accelerators, and the 16-story central office building.

On June 26, 1969, the first proton beam acceleration took place of 10 million electron volts (10 MEV). It reached 66 MEV a year later, and then 139 MEV. A beam coursed through the entire linear accelerator (the first installation) for the first time on Nov. 30, 1970.

The booster section installed the last of 96 magnets in its 500-foot-diameter synchrotron. On Jan. 23, 1971, the first proton beam, began in the Linac, coasted around the booster ring.

On May 21, 1971, the booster achieved its design energy of 8 billion electron volts.

The main accelerator, began in 1969, uses 200 magnets to guide proton beams around its four-mile ring. It started with 1 billion electron volts.

On June 30, 1971, a proton beam was guided through the entire NAL system for the first time. Speeds reached 20 billion electron volts on Jan. 22, and 53 BEV, on Feb. 4, 1972.

Then on Feb. 11, 1972, the main ring reached an energy level of 100 billion electron volts to become the world's highest energy accelerator. It surpassed, that day, the 76 BEV machine at Serpukhov in the Soviet Union, scientists say.

The next day, Lincoln's Birthday, scientists from Russia and the United States began collecting data for the NAL's first experiment in high energy particle physics.

On March 1, 1972, NAL reached its design energy of 200 BEV — 39 months after ground was broken for the first lab building. On March 8, seven Russian scientists arrived for joint research with University of Rochester scientists.

Protons reached 300 BEV on July 16, 1972.

And then, on Dec. 14, 1972, the accelerator reached the 400 billion electron volt level, doubling its energy for which it was designed in a short nine months.

By last July, NAL scientists had 230 proposals from physicists throughout the world to conduct experiments. The staff is expected to reach 1,500 scientists and support members by 1975. By last summer, NAL had 1,100 full-time employes.

About 350 researchers are working there at any given time.

Vasiloff again heads Knights of Columbus

Tri-Cities Council 1098 of the Knights of Columbus re-elected Dr. J. R. Vasiloff, a Granite City chiropractor, as grand knight at a meeting Thursday night.

Also elected for the 1974-75 year were Frank Kierski, deputy grand knight; T. A. Feeler, recording secretary; Francis Herman, treasurer; Henry Kahn, chancellor; Daniel Stack, advocate; Rick Kierski, warden; Joe Burns, inside guard; Tom Miller, outside guard; and Trustees Albert Sanders, three years, Ed Evans, two years, and Rudy Hoffek, one year.

Dr. Vasiloff and Steve Saltich Sr. were named delegates to the state convention, with Sanders and Robert McCormick as alternates.

Msgr. Lawrence J. Mattingly was appointed as chaplain.

Steve Saltich Jr., chairman of the K. of C. family picnic, said it will be held July 20 at the Lake of the Tall Timbers, Staunton. Sanders, barbecue chairman, announced a kickoff barbecue July 6 at the K. of C. Hall for members only.

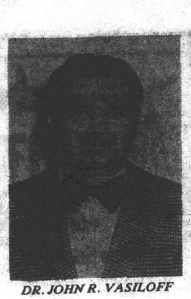

Evans, faithful navigator of the Fourth Degree, noted that Council 1098 was represented at an Edwardsville Jaycee Flag Day parade Wednesday evening.

Msgr. Mattingly cited "the wonderful spirit of fellowship and unity of cause" exemplified by the K. of C.-Shrine sausage fest held here this month.

"World conflicts develop due to lack of family and Christian spirit and proper communication. I encourage our members to continue with the grand work of charity, fraternity and patriotism," he said.

James Stack, chairman, thanked Shriners, Knights, Daughters of Isabella and wives of the men's groups for their roles in the benefit sausage dinner.

The grand knight presented certificates to new members Bill Dallas, Clarence DeGenia, Steve Horvath, John Jarde, Michael Kraus, Eric Mooshegian and John Pieper. Following prayer, refreshments were served by Rick Kierski.

Soft wheat varieties demonstrated are McNair 4823, Abe, Blueboy I, Blueboy II, Arthur, Arthur 71 and Oasis. Hard wheat varieties shown are Sentinel, Homestead, Centurk, Parker and Gage.

Thieves haul away building supplies

Thieves reportedly used a truck to haul gutters, spouts, louvers, storm doors, elbows and fixtures, all valued at $255, from a backyard at 2617 East 28th St. Friday.

The owner, Keith Mathenia, reported at 7:58 a.m. that his garage also was entered and items valued at $273 were taken.

Removed from the garage were a dwell meter, an impact wrench, six sets of spark plugs, an auto repair manual, a ridge reamer, and a ring groove cleaner.

Suit asks $300,000

Edward Broyles has filed a two-count suit against the Norfolk and Western Railway Co. in Madison County Circuit Court. Each count seeks $150,000.

He alleges that on Dec. 25, 1973, while he was employed by the railroad, he suffered injuries to his face, head, and body while attempting to align a coupler on a railroad engine.

Weather holds down homecoming crowds

Inclement weather Thursday and Friday held down crowds at the 16th annual Homecoming celebration, sponsored by the Granite City Jaycees, which concluded last night on Fehling Road, adjacent to the American Village Shopping Center.

However, a total of 7,000 tickets was sold during Saturday afternoon's three-hour matinee session when all rides were reduced in price to 25 cents, according to Jaycee Guy Cooper.

The children's matinee session on Sunday also was well attended despite overcast skies and cool weather.

Heavy rains late last week created some problems in moving the big equipment into the carnival area for midway operator Ray Swyear and his crew. Jaycees spread quantities of sand to help dry out the non-grassy surfaces on portions of the site, Cooper said.

"If we can secure the same location next year, we plan to make some improvements to the site prior to the carnival opening," the Jaycee member commented today. He added that in the past eight years only once has rain not occurred during the homecoming.

Country music shows were presented on all four nights of the event and local clubs and civic organizations sold food and other items to the carnival patrons.

Summer jobs needed

The need of young people to obtain jobs during the summer months was emphasized at the Thursday noon meeting of the Granite City Optimist club in the YMCA.

James Bowman of the Illinois Employment Service explained that the federal government programs only provide about 200 jobs in this area and at least 600 are needed.

He said many of the young people are very talented. They need jobs not just to occupy their time, but to earn money to return to school, buy clothes and even in some cases buy food, he added.

A discussion was held by the members concerning the area float proposed by the Rotary Club for the State Fair. Action was delayed until more information can be obtained.

It was reported that the joint Rotary-Optimist sponsored Camelot auction will be held Oct. 19 at the Sunset Hills Country club. The Camelot committee will meet early in July.

Mike Thorpe, a member of the local YMCA staff, was the guest of Optimist President Dave Fox.

Monica Beth Rea, 9, granddaughter of Optimist Frank Rea also attended the meeting. Monica lives in Silver Springs, Md., and visits here every summer.

GC man arrested on two charges

Pontoon Beach police arrested Kenneth R. Janulavich, 30, Box 622, Granite City, and charged him with aggravated battery and resisting arrest following an incident at 7:52 p.m. Friday at 3881 Rodney Drive, Apt. 1.

Janulavich was charged with aggravated battery after he reportedly went to the apartment occupied by a girl friend and allegedly slapped, kicked and pushed her down stairs, and then placed a knife at her throat, officers reported.

When officers attempted to escort his from the apartment, he told them, "Keep your hands off of me" and walked to a parked auto, police said.

Upon reaching the auto, Janulavich allegedly opened the car door and shoved Sgt. Harold J. Denham. After a brief scuffle he was subdued by the officer and a Madison County deputy sheriff who had been called to assist, a police report said.

Bond was set at $2,000 on the aggravated battery charge and at $1,000 on a charge of resisting arrest.
